

MATTHEW DIFAZIO

DVM, DACVR

Radiology

Dr. Matthew DiFazio is originally from Long Island, NY and attended the University of Notre Dame with a major in Biology. His DVM was completed at Cornell College of Veterinary Medicine in 2018, after which he spent five years at Kansas State University pursuing a one-year small animal rotating internship in medicine and surgery, followed by a one-year specialty internship and a three-year residency, both in diagnostic imaging. Dr. DiFazio achieved boarded diplomate status with the American College of Veterinary Radiology (ACVR) in October of 2023.

Dr. DiFazio's professional interests include neurological MRI, methods to optimize radiographic yield, applications of technology in medicine, and clinical communication. In his spare time, he is a runner, cyclist, skier, general lover of the outdoors, and hobby chef.